

Li Shan

Li Shan is a analyst of Communications Information Research, China Academy of Telecom Research of MII. She is responsible for tracking the development and trends of global telecommunication regulators, telecommunication carriers and telecommunication equipment suppliers. She is always engaged in studying mobile and wireless technologies, market, services and regulation policies, especially broadband access technologies like WLAN, WiMAX, UWB etc, mobile data services, mobile communication value chain etc.