

Short biography of Ignat Stanev

Education:

Technical University, Sofia, BULGARIA - Engineer in Computers and Doctor in Computer-Aided Design

Professional experience:

From 1971 to 1978 Engineer and Research Associate in the Central Institute for Computers, Sofia.

From 1978 to 2004 Research Associate and Senior Research Associate in the Telecom Research Institute (ISRT) to the Bulgarian Telecom Company. Participation and leadership in many projects in the field of teletraffic engineering and network planning.

From 2005 Assoc. Professor lecturing on Telecommunications Networks in the Higher College of Telecommunications and Posts, Sofia, Bulgaria.

From 1981 to 1983 participation in ITU project for development of network planning software - that software was further developed under the name PLANITU.

In 1988-91 planning of the East/South-East European Regional International Network - ITU project EUROTTELDEV.

From 1986 participation in the studies of CCITT/CAS and later in ITU/SG2.

In 1991-92 and 1993-94 visit in CNET, Paris, FRANCE TELECOM, on projects connected with the development of tools for planning of National and Intelligent networks.

From 2000 visiting professor in DTU (Denmark Technical University) on network planning.

From 1984 many missions as ITU expert and lecturer on network planning.

From 2001 Member of the International Advisory Council of the International Teletraffic Congress (ITC) and Chairman of ITC-COM3 Developing Countries Matters.

Publications: Over 100 papers in international and national congresses, magazines, scientific journals.